The screening copies of the selected works will be sent in their original version. In case the language is different from Spanish, it will be presented with subtitles embedded in the image in this language.

Copies of the selected works may be used in limited viewings for the selection committee and in the Festival's Palmarés samples that are organized by the festival, always for cultural and non-profit purposes, prior notification to the producers to what the material is used for.

The selected films will be shown at the times and places that appear on the festival's official website (www.navarrafestival.com), assuming that the participants authorize these projections from the moment of their registration in the Festival.

The selected films will also participate, if they wish, in the online edition of the contest, through the online film platform Filmin. The films can be seen on Filmin during the dates established by the festival. The benefits obtained will be distributed as follows: 60% for the participating films, 40% for Filmin.

In any case, express authorization will be requested for its online broadcast through the festival's official platform in the event that they also opt for this modality. The acceptance of participation in online format will not be mandatory to participate in the face-to-face version of the contest.

With the registration of a work and the consequent acceptance of these rules, the owners of the works that are selected to participate in competitive sections give the Festival the right to project said works —always for exclusively cultural and non-commercial purposes— throughout the year and a half following the celebration of the Festival in the different extraordinary activities held outside the official week, whose purpose is the promotion of the festival.

In any case, these possible projections will always be notified to the owner of the work and will always be free for the public.

4. Sections

The Navarra International Film Festival 2023 will have the following sections:

- Official Section (International Competition)
- New Generation Section (International Competition)
- Navarre Short Film
- Parallel sections

4.1. OFFICIAL SECTION

In the Official Section, international and Spanish short films* will compete on equal terms, and all of them are eligible for the Official Section awards indicated below.

The Official Section will have its own specific Jury, which will award the corresponding prizes independently from the rest of the sections.

() Spanish short films are considered to be all Spanish productions, co-productions where the Spanish participation is greater than 40% and those works directed by filmmakers of Spanish nationality, even if they have been produced by other countries.*

4.2. NEW GENERATION SECTION

New Generation is a new competitive section whose main objective is to encourage the creation and audiovisual training of young people. We believe that the future of our cinema lies in the new generations and that is why the NIFF New Generation wants to look for those looks that will be the cinema of tomorrow.

This section may attend European works by young people between 18 and 25 years. All team leaders must be within this age range.

The works may not exceed 10 minutes in length, not including credits and in no case may the total duration of the work exceed 12 minutes.

Attendance at the festival by the finalists is mandatory in order to receive one of the prizes. In the event that the director or the director cannot attend, any of the team leaders may attend.

The other criteria for this section are the same as those set forth in the general considerations.

New Generation will have its own specific Jury, which will award the corresponding prizes independently from the rest of the sections.

Dynamics of the New Generation section

A. Until June 15, 2023, all people may submit their works following the requirements established in the bases.

B. On July 1, 2023, the short films selected as candidates will be published on the festival website.

C. Five short finalists will be selected from among the candidate short films. Four of these short films will be selected by the jury. The fifth will be selected by popular vote.

D. During the first week of August the five short films selected as finalists will be published. A representative of each project will be invited to the NIFF to present their short film in person and attend other activities.

Popular vote for New Generation

A. On July 1st, the short films selected as candidates. There will be one post for each short film.

B. To vote, each person must "Like" their favorite short film and follow the festival account @navarrafestival. If the person who "likes" does not follow the festival account, the vote will be invalid. 1 like in the publication of the favorite short film + follow the account = 1 vote

E. On July 31 at 11:59 p.m. the period for popular voting closes. The work that has obtained more votes will be the winner and will obtain a direct pass as finalist.

Finalists

Five finalists will be selected from the short films selected as candidates and will be announced during the second week of August.

The five finalist short films will be screened on the big screen within the fifth edition of the NIFF that takes place from September 21 to 23, 2023.

The NIFF will take care of the accommodation and half board of the five representatives of the short films selected as finalists.

The finalists will obtain a mentorship with industry professionals linked to LRN - La Residencia Navarra www.laresidencianavarra.com on their works presented to NIFF New Generation.

They will also be accredited to access the festival activities.
